MONDAY, May 27. 1765. [NUMB. 1551.

The BOSTON Evening-Poſt.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Extract of Letters from London, Feb. 7th & 10th.

THE parliament met on the 10th ult. and in the houſe of commons General Conway ſet forth his grievances in a long ſpeech for the purpoſe; his ſervices he ſaid had been rewarded by a diſmiſſion without trial, or without his being guilty of an offence but that of ſpeaking his ſentiments in the houſe; his regiment it was true brought him 1500l. a year, but neither that nor any other conſideration, nor even the houſe full of gold, ſhould make him forego that privilege; he then imputed his diſmiſſion to Mr. G—nv—le,◊ whom he treated with ſeverity, and even affected contempt. Mr. G.◊ anſwered him in ſuch a manner as gave ſatisfaction to the houſe. To the perſonal reflections thrown out by Mr. Conway, he ſaid he was not ſenſible he had acted otherwiſe than become him to that gentleman, and that if he perſiſted in thinking ſo, he would find him ready to anſwer him in the houſe, out of the houſe, or any where. To this Mr. Conway, in his reply, thought proper to ſay, that his invectives had been pointed againſt the miniſter, and that neither he nor the greateſt part of the people of England believed Mr. G—◊to be ſuch. This only occaſioned a laugh—Lord Granby ſeconded Conway, and ſpoke what he ſaid had always been his ſentiments with reſpect to diſmiſſion of officers without military cauſe or trial, and ſaid that he thought no officers ought to ſit in that houſe; theſe, however, he only offered with much modeſty, as the ideas he had for ſome time formed on that particular matter; much to the diſappointment of the minority, who had flattered themſelves with the hopes of ſo great an acquiſition.

" Sir William Meredith moved the houſe, that a day ſhould be appointed for taking up the queſtion relating to general warrants, which was left undetermined laſt ſeſſion, and to the ſurpriſe of every body was ſeconded by Sir Fletcher Norton the attorney general, who declared he wiſhed for nothing more than to have that matter debated and determined by parliament, and accordingly a day was appointed, which ſhewed that the miniſtry were not at all apprehenſive of their opponents, and it alſo ſhewed they had no intention to keep off the deciſion of any queſtion where the liberty of the ſubject is concerned. When the appointed day arrived, tho' the oppoſition muſtered their whole force, and many who had voted with the miniſtry on other points joined them, yet they loſt the queſtion, and the matter's left to the courts of law: a determination which muſt afford ſincere pleaſure to every true friend of his country and her excellent laws, who wiſhes to ſee them tranſmitted to poſterity; to every man who wiſhes the liberty of the ſubject may never ſtand on ſuch a foundation as when the houſes of lords was voted uſeleſs, and the Engliſh conſtitution became extinct.

" Several publications from N. America have lately made their appearance here, in which the independency of the colonies is aſſerted in pretty round terms. I ſhall not ſay how far ſuch performances may be concluſive in their reaſonings; it does not appear however, that they will at this juncture be of any great ſervice to the places where they firſt ſaw the light, though perhaps they may be ſpecimens of the profound erudition of the authors. Some ſcruple not to affirm, that ſentiments like theſe, expreſſed with impunity by individuals, and in ſome meaſure ſupported by legiſlative proceedings, will oblige government here to think of ſteps that may check ſuch haughty republican ſpirits. The real friends of North-America ſee thoſe publications with pain, while ſome others view them with pleaſure. It is ſuggeſted that the authors have done the colonies more diſſervice than their inabilities can repair in a century: and it has been ſaid publickly,---" They " pretend to aſſimilate themſelves to the moſt auguſt repreſentative body in the world, and forgetting at one inſtant the royal hand which gave " them what they enjoy, at the next inſiſt on what " it never did nor could give, an exemption from " the power of parliament." It is certain that American affairs will be more cloſely attended to than heretofore; a meaſure than which none can be more agreeable to the people of England, who have long beheld the difference between the taxes they are obliged to pay and thoſe paid America, not conſidering perhaps ſufficiently the ſuperiour advantages themſelves enjoy in many other reſpects. It is confidently ſaid, that ſuch neceſſary and beneficent laws as the Americans do not paſs, will be enacted for them, thoſe of another ſort repeal without mercy, the government ſupported, publick officers paid, popular appointments annulled, and all this very ſoon, now that war it over, oppoſition in the duſt, profuſion at an end, and the different miniſters labour to diſtinguiſh themſelves in their ſeveral departments.

" The conſiderations of impoſing a ſtamp duty in America, poſtponed laſt ſeſſion that the ſenſe of the colonies thereon might be known, has juſt been reſumed, and a bill ordered to be brought in for impoſing the ſaid duty.¶ Two of the colony agents only had any authority from their conſtituents to offer an equivalent to be raiſed by the colonies themſelves; the others being inſtructed to oppoſe the bill by preſenting petitions from their aſſemblies, &c. ſome whereof were conceived in ſuch terms as rendered it impracticable to preſent them; the committee of the whole houſes divided 245 againſt 49, and the reſolutions were agreed to in the houſe without a diviſion, yet we ſtill hope for ſome mitigation before the bill paſſes into a law. A late pamphlet has the following paragraph;——" Should the doc" trine be adopted that, becauſe the colonies have " no repreſentatives they ought not to be taxed by " parliament, might not Leeds, Halifax, Birming" ham, Sheffield, that part of the dutchy of Lancaſter " which lies at the very gates of the royal palace, " and many other places of great opulence, with " equal juſtice ſay that they are not bound to pay " any taxes impoſed by a Britiſh parliament, be" cauſe they have no repreſentative in that body?" a queſtion to which many would be glad to ſee a ſatisfactory anſwer."

LONDON, April. 11.

AN Act hath been paſſed this ſeſſion of Parliament for puniſhing Mutiny and Deſertion, and a bill hath been brought in for extending the mutiny act to the Colonies, by which Bill it is propoſed that it ſhall and may be lawful to and for the conſtables, tithing men, magiſtrates and other civil officers of villages, towns, townſhips, cities, diſtricts & other places within his Majeſty's dominions in America, and in default or abſence, for any one Juſtice of the peace inhabiting in or near any ſuch village, &c. and for no others, to quarter and billet the officers and ſoldiers in his Majeſty's ſervice, in the barracks provided for that purpoſe, or in public houſes, or houſes licenſed for retailing, and in caſe there ſhould not be ſufficient room therein, then, and in no other caſe it ſhall and may be lawful for any or more of his Majeſty's Juſtices in or near the ſaid villages, &c. and they are thereby required to billet the reſidue " in ſuch manner as hath hitherto been practiſed to billet his Majeſty's forces in his Majeſty's dominions in America."

It is propoſed alſo by the ſaid Bill that the juſtices within or near the ſaid villages, &c. ſhall upon the requiſition of the General or the commanding officer there, be obliged to procure carriages and able drivers for the tranſporting arms and baggage, the prices whereof are to be fixed by the ſaid Bill, and proviſion is therein made that the driver ſhall be paid from day to day agreeable to the rates therein eſtabliſhed. ||

April 12. The Earl of Halifax packet, Boulderſon, is arrived from New York in 30 days.

It is confidently aſſerted that dignities in the church will ſoon be appointed for North America, and that the Rev. Mr. George Whitefield will be among the firſt named.

Its reported Lord Temple will be appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

It is ſaid previous to the eſtabliſhment of epiſcocy in our American colonies, ſome clergymen of eminence will be ſent over, to make an enquiry into the general ſtate of religion, that the miniſtry may judge how far it will be neceſſary to favor them with indulgencies, or to check them with reſtraints.

April 13. The 29th, 52d, & 59th regiments of foot, from Ireland, and two regiments from England are to embark for New-York in about three weeks.

The muſlin manufacture is now carried on with great ſucceſs at New-York, under the direction of one Douglaſs, from Glaſgow.

On Saturday laſt died, after a lingering illneſs, his Gravity A. B. MONITOR, Eſq; well known among the Patriots in Albemarle-ſtreet as a ſteady Aſſertor of the liberties of the ſubject, and a zealous Promoter of the Rights and Privileges of Engliſhmen. This poor Gentleman had long laboured under a kind of lethargick diſorder, which ſeemed to threaten a period at once to his Writings and Patriotiſm. But his diſſolution is ſuppoſed to have been not a little accelerated by ſome uncommon motions lately made by him, which, as being quite heterogeneous to his conſtitution, ſoon brought on a criſis, that terminated in his death and annihilation.

By letters from France it appears, that the number of veſſels fitted out this year by the merchants of that kingdom for the Newfoundland fiſhery, will exceed 1000 ſail; there being ſcarce a trader in any of their ſea ports who has not a ſhare in this valuable commerce.

April 15. The Earl of Northington is appointed Lord High Steward for the trial of Lord Byron, ◊ which comes on to-morrow.

We hear that one brief alone to be pleaded upon an enſuing trial, conſiſts of 48 ſheets of paper.

The Earl of Bute has lately paid a viſit to his royal highneſs the Duke of Cumberland.

The affair of the Manilla ranſom, with the propereſt methods to obtain ſatisfaction on that head from the court of madrid, we are aſſured will be thoroughly inveſtigated before the breaking up of an auguſt aſſembly. ¶

We hear that a manufacture of mill-ſtones is eſtabliſhed at Quebec, which will be a great ſaving to the colonies, they being imported from abroad at a conſiderable expence.

They write from Briſtol, that forty-eight couple of blood-hounds were ſhipt from thence a few days ago, on commiſſion from New-York, where the breed of theſe uſeful animals are to be kept up for the benefit of that province.

Recent letters from Quebec adviſe, that no leſs than ten diſtilleries are eſtabliſhed in that city, which will ſoon take off the demand of any farther importation of Britiſh ſpirits from England: And from New-York, that from ſome late experiments in the diſtillation of Indian corn they have improved ſo far as to produce a ſpirit equal to the beſt Engliſh brandy.

The parliament will not riſe till the 30th of May.

Philadelphia, May 16.

On Saturday one Joſeph Pumroy was taken up here, and committed to goal, being charged with breaking open the Shop of Mr. Edwards, junior, of Boſton, and carrying off goods to a great value.

PORTSMOUTH, New-Hampſhire, May 24.

Laſt Wedneſday arrived here Capt. Hickſon in a Ship from London, which he left the 12th of April. In her came paſſengers Capt. Sharrad of Boſton and Capt. Bull of Rhode Iſland.

Capt. Hickſon informs, that on the 28th of April in lat. 40. long. 30. he ſaw a ſhip and went on board her, but found no perſon; ſhe had no ſails, loaded with maſts, white pine boards, and appeared of the north country built, having no head nor galleries, and was what they call a pink, and over the cabin table was wrote, All fair under the Roſe.

By Capt. Randall who arrived here a few days ago, we are informed, that Capt. Richard Reed, of Marblehead, who came out of Saltertuda in company with him, fell overboard and was drowned.
